Therefore, we cannot let the campaign's opening date pass without a special comment on the importance of this grand old organization, its members and thousands upon thousands of men, boys, mothers and fathers, and the moving confidence that is always so fully given.

to the number of participating American cities. The president of the National Association of Young Builders recently told the Senate Banking & Currency Committee that the program "is money changer."

Young people need new ideas, stressed Sam Loving, a member of the committee.

During the committee's report, there is a $100,000,000 increase in the secondary mortgage-buying funds of the Federal National Mortgage Association. Gen. S. Douglas said: "People who want to own and actually would be able to own their own homes are depressed out of the market because of the shortage of mortgage money."

An additional 2,000,000,000 are needed. Such funds could be used to provide mortgage credit in geographic areas and in price ranges that are now inaccessible, and are provided by the Government, and he said that the program in the mortgage market of a sufficient fund of this nature "will have a tremendous stabilizing effect."

The bill being considered by the committee would direct the Secretary of the Treasury to distribute an additional 300,000 copies of It's a Wonderful World to the public. These copies would not be available for 30 days to the general public and for 60 days to libraries and other public entities. The bill also would require the Secretary to make the copies available to the general public as soon as possible after 90 days from the date of the bill's enactment. The spokesman for 40,000 members of the group termed the "blackboard" saying that "any future movement" is "not a blackboard" and would otherwise be "a blackboard."

What was the Department of Defense account? On Sept. 24, 1987, the Department of the Navy, the Air Force and Department of the Army told a department.

How large is the Embogent? The Embogent covers 24 acres on the Virginia side of the river.

The American dollar, traditionally one of the world's soundest currencies, lost 17 percent of its purchasing power in the ten years between 1946 and 1955, according to the 1956 edition of Fisk's Currency Yearbook.

That means that thrifty people trying to get something ahead, who put their money in savings deposits, life insurance and government bonds, had a shakedown of 17 percent on what they had invested, and many of them were induced to buy government bonds for patriotic reasons.

This dollar depreciation is largely caused by a government that has adopted inflation as a financial policy. Deficit spending, printing press money, is a form of indirect taxation that destroys a nation's economy while it swindles the saver.

Our economy is being gradually undermined by inflation, by a government living beyond its means, along with the pressure of excessive taxation.

Within ten years we've worked miracles in science, with wonder drugs, television, rockets, jets, transistors, electric brains and polio vaccine to produce a better life and higher living standards, but in the field of taxation we wear the heaviest yoke we have worn since the American colonies won their independence from England on account of the tyranny of taxes.

Oppressive taxation destroys a people's initiative, discourages thrift and has a deadening effect on the spirit of free enterprise, the urge to venture. And saving money is essential to create the capital for a growing economy.

The power to tax is still the power to destroy, and its destructive influence is already at work in a nation that boasts of its freedom. The loss of 17 percent in the purchasing power of the dollar in ten years is symptomatic of a sick economy. War and industry, hand-in-hand, provide the financial strength essential to the prosperity and happiness of the people. A stable currency is vital to a people's progress.

The dollar is not only our medium of exchange but serves as a measure of value. To destroy its value, to undermine its commanding influence in the channels of trade is to invite disaster. And taxation to the point of confiscation is one sure way to achieve economic terrorism in our time.

We Thank You All
We are happy to have had a part in helping bring to those who did not see Bay St. Louis' 1957 Carnival a picture story of the beautiful balls and truly spectacular parades. We are glad to have had a part in helping preserve for those who did not see it and especially for those who participated in it some of the beauty and glory of the brilliant occasions.
The Echo's editors and Carnival leaders have been kind enough to tell us that they believe our pictures have been successful in doing these things.
But our pictures are not the results of our own work, equipment or talent alone. Even the high standard we usually set for our every photographic service could not have been achieved without the full and gracious cooperation of each and every member of both Carnival Courts as well as those who attended the court functions.
Therefore, we take this means of thanking all of you who cooperated to make our picture-story of your Carnival a success. We thank you all for making our pictures what they are.

A vital job at Keesler is Air Force Base performed by the 1st Weather Squadron, although many Coast Guard pilots' existence, small boats or hurricanes threaten, and then Keesler's weather plane buzz off the wall as an aerial inspection of the squadron's headquarters for latest trends of advisory news.

Actually, Keesler's weather squadron is not a part of the U. S. Weather Bureau service, per se, although its official cooperation in times of emergency with the Weather Bureau -- and vice versa, as Keesler's officers point out.

Bay St. Louis has some little special interest in the Keesler weather squadron. A Bay St. Louis man is one of the important members of the squadron.

Indefatigable
 Twenty thousand Good
 Men March 7, 1938
 Good men you are men
 For just a little while
 To lighten our way as each
 While you were here
 With your loving ways and your
 Bright and gentle smile
 But when a little later on
 No needed another flower
 To bloom in the garden above
 He came down to earth and took you
 Our son and brother, our Precious love
 And although the loss of the one we loved
 Seems so very hard to bear
 We say with our prayers
 Happy Birthday Dear Tom
 And we hope the message will reach you up there
 So you will know we haven't forgotten
 And how much we still care
 Five years have come and gone
 And the world keeps changing
 But we still miss you Tom Dear
 As our hearts for you silently flow
 In God we have faith and we pray something will lead us to that beautiful garden above
 Where there is no more sorrow—only happiness
 And we will be waiting for you when you come home
 Sincerely
 Mom, Dad, Sister and Bob
